Handwritten ledger page, similar to the first one, with a circular stamp in the top left corner. It features a 'REVENUE' column on the left and an 'EXPENSES' column on the right. The page is mostly blank, with only a few entries visible at the top, suggesting it is either a new page or one that has been mostly cleared.

Handwritten ledger page with a circular stamp in the top left corner. The page is filled with dense, vertical columns of text and numbers, organized into a structured grid. The entries are small and difficult to read due to the tight spacing and handwriting.

Handwritten ledger page with a circular stamp in the top left corner. The page is divided into several columns, with the left side containing larger, more legible entries and the right side containing smaller, more detailed numerical data. The overall layout is organized and systematic.

The image shows three pages of handwritten notes on lined paper. Each page contains a table with several columns and rows of text. The handwriting is in black ink. The tables appear to be organized into sections, possibly representing different categories or data points. The pages are slightly blurred, suggesting they were scanned from a video or a moving camera.
